

	Question	Answer
1	If an ability instructs you to perform multiple actions, can I perform them in any order?	No. Resolve the ability in the order written, starting from the beginning of the text.
2	If two skills, one that allows an action and one that prohibits it, must be applied at the same time, what should I do?	The effect that prohibits the action takes priority.
3	If a skill says it can be used if you do a specified action, can I still use the subsequent effect if I cannot perform that action?	No, you cannot.
4	If a skill says it can be used if you do a specified action, can I choose not to use the subsequent skill after performing that action?	No. If you perform the specified action, you must use the subsequent skill.
5	After using a Character's sblity with an skill that lasts "during this turn," does the skill end if that character leaves the court?	No. Once used, a skill with a specified duration, such as "during this turn" or "during your opponent's next turn," remains active for that duration. However, for a permanent skill, the skill may cease to apply if the card moves to another area, even if a duration is specified.
6	During my turn, a Character entered my Receive Area. If both my ability that activates when a Character enters my Receive Area and my opponent's ability that activates when a Character enters my Receive Area are active, which resolves first?	Your skill resolves first. If multiple skills are triggered at the same time, first resolve all abilities of the turn player's cards, and then resolve all abilities of the non-turn player's cards.
7	Can an ability that activates "when this Character enters" be used if the Character enters through an ability that has that Character enter?	Yes, it can.
8	If a skill says to send an opponent's card to the Drop Area, can I place that card in my Drop Area?	No. Unless otherwise specified, an skill that moves a card from one area to another cannot place that card in a different player's area.
9	If a skill prevents cards from being added to my hand, can I increase the number of cards in my hand with a skill that draws cards?	No. Drawing a card is included in adding a card to your hand.

10	Is there a difference between “2 cards” and “up to 2 cards” in ability text?	Yes. “2 cards” means exactly 2 cards, while “up to 2 cards” means you may choose any number from 0 to 2 when resolving the skill.
11	Can I use a character’s ability that activates when it enters after playing an Event Card?	No. You must resolve the character’s skill that activates when it enters before resolving the Event Card’s skill. However, if playing the Event Card causes a character to enter, resolve that character’s skill that activates when it enters, and then continue resolving the Event Card’s skill.
12	What does “original” mean?	It refers to the unmodified number (parameter) or information printed on the card.
13	What does “:” mean?	It means that, in order to declare the use of this ability, you must perform the text inside[]that appears before the colon (:).
14	What does “if all of your Characters are ○○” mean?	It means that every Character on your court has the ○○ affiliation. This condition is not met if you have no Characters. A Character is the top Character Card in each area on the Court. Character Cards beneath another Character are not Characters and are not referenced.
15	What does “if all of your characters are ○○ or all are △△” mean?	It means that every Character on your Court has the ○○ affiliation, or every Character on your Court has the △△ affiliation. This condition is not met if you have no Characters, or if your characters are a mix of Characters that have △△ but not ○○ and Characters that have only ○○. A Character is the top Character Card in each area on the Court. Character Cards beneath another Character are not Characters and are not referenced.
16	What does “cannot use their ability” mean?	The ability cannot be used, and its skill does not occur.
17	What does “start the Draw Phase” mean?	It means to resume the game from the beginning of the specified player’s Draw Phase.
18	If I start the Draw Phase by using the [=Deflection (N)] skill, can I draw a card from my deck?	Yes, you can.

19	When do I check whether my opponent has ○ or fewer cards in hand?	Check when this Character enters the Court and you use the ability.
20	What does “ If there are ○ or more characters with different affiliations” mean?	It means to choose ○ Characters on your Court and reference one affiliation of each chosen Character. The condition is met if none of those affiliations are the same.
21	What does “if there are △ or more ○○ character cards with different names in your Drop Area” mean?	It means that your Drop Area contains cards with △ or more different card names among Character Cards with the ○○ affiliation.
22	What does [=Stuffed (N)] mean?	At the end of this turn, your Block Offense Point becomes N. A ball with N Offense Point is returned to your opponent's Court, and your opponent must Receive with N or more Receive Point.
23	What does [=Back Attack (N)] mean?	Have this card enter your Attack Area, and this Character's Attack Point becomes N.
○○・△△ (Double Name card)	Can this card enter the Block Area as “○○” together with another “△△”?	Yes, it can.
○○・△△ (Double Name card)	During my next turn after my opponent had HV-P01-032 enter the Serve Area, if I have HV-PR-009 “Oikawa・Iwaizumi” enter the Receive Area, does its card name change?	Yes. When HV-PR-009 “Oikawa・Iwaizumi” enters, you choose one of its card names and change its name before it becomes a Character in the Receive Area. Therefore, the ability used before it becomes a Character in the Receive Area is not nullified.
○○・△△ (Double Name card)	With this card's ability, can I choose one copy as “○○” and another copy as “△△,” then have both enter the Block Area side by side?	Yes, you can.
○○・△△ (Double Name card)	Can I use the ability of HV-P01-075 to add 2 copies of this card from the Guts to my hand?	Yes. A card with multiple affiliations always has all of those affiliations in every area, so you may add the 2 copies to your hand as ○○ or △△ cards from the Guts.
